

GARUDA PURANAM, anasarca. An oedema or Anasarca-patient should do well to take Pippali through the vehicle of milk or cow's urine, or Abhyayi and treacle. Castor oil, taken with a decoction of Vald cures hernia, attended with distension of the abdomen and an aching pain. Oil of black Uravaka cooked with the paste of Pathyi and taken with Krishna and rock salt proves efficacious in Vriddhi Roga. The expressed juice of Nirgundi roots used as an errhine cures Scrofula; fomentations with decoctions of Snuhi and Gambhirikd leads to the resolution of tumours. Plasters of .pasted Hasti-Karna and Palasha prove curative in scrofula; plasters composed of Dhushra, Eranda, Nirgundhi, Varshabhu, Shigru and Sarshapa pasted together are known to cure cases of long-standing Elephantiasis. Plasters of Hingu, Shobhanjana and Siridhuttha cure Vidradhis-(abcesses). Plasters of Sharapunkha made with honey bring about the healing of an ulcer; plasters of Nimva leaves help its asepsion. A wise physician should employ a decoction of Triphala, Khadira, Dervi, and Nyagrodha for washing all cuts, ulcers or Sadyao Vranas attended with an aching pain. Plasters of Yashthimadbu mixed with warm clarified butter would prove efficacious in all forms, of traumatic ulcers. In all traumatic ulcers (cuts, wounds, etc.) cooling measures should-be at once resorted to for alleviating the heat of the enraged blood and deranged Pittam of the locality, for which purpose the part may be washed with a decoction of Bamboo-bark, Eranda and Shvadanstra", mixed with honey; a solution of Hingu with rocksalt, or a decoction of Yava, Kola, and Kulatha pulse without the addition of Ghritam, internally administered, lets out the blood incarcerated in any of the wounded Kosthas (chambers) or viscera of the body. Arishta (medicated wine) of Karanjfa, or the expressed juice of Nirgundi proves curative in ulcers and 'worms in the intestines. Pills made of powdered Triphala and Guggulu remove constipation of the bowels 'and <*ure ulcers. A medicated oil cooked with the-expressed